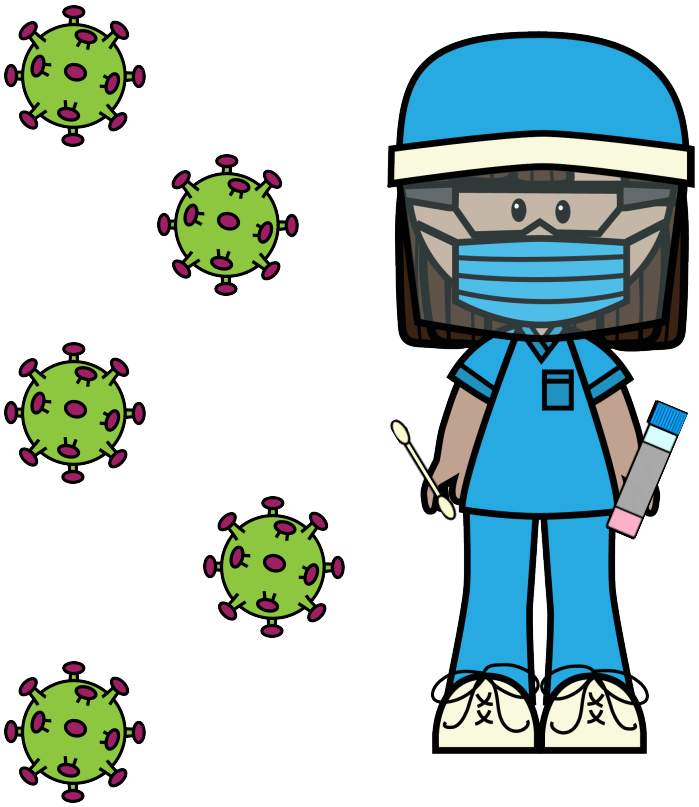
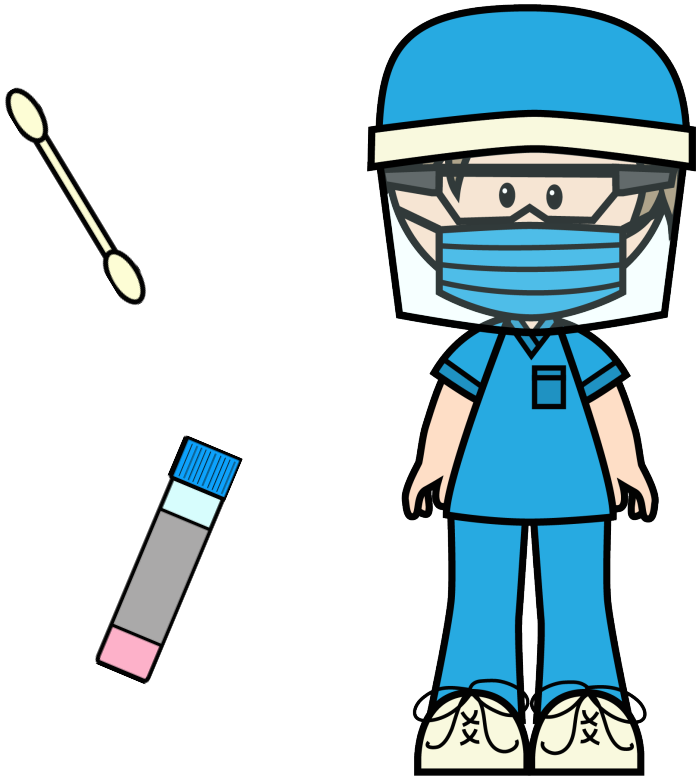
Getting a Coronavirus test done



© Autism Little Learners



I need to have a Coronavirus test done. Many other people around the world have had this same test done.

I might get a test because I have symptoms, or because it is required for work or school.

Getting a test done makes me feel nervous. But it will be okay!

Some people go into a clinic or hospital for a test.

Some people go to a drive up testing site.

The person that gives the test will be wearing protective equipment.

They might take my temperature.

I should try to stand or sit still.
This will help make the test easier.

To give the test, the nurse will put a swab in my nose or in my mouth.

© Autism Little Learners

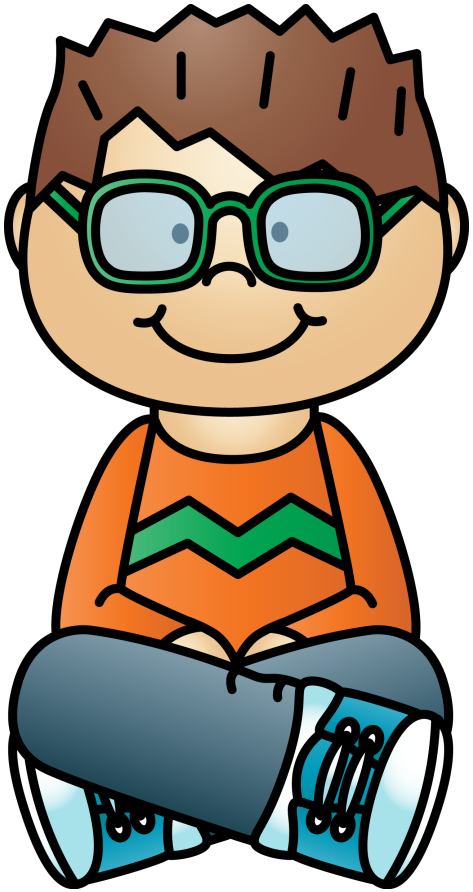
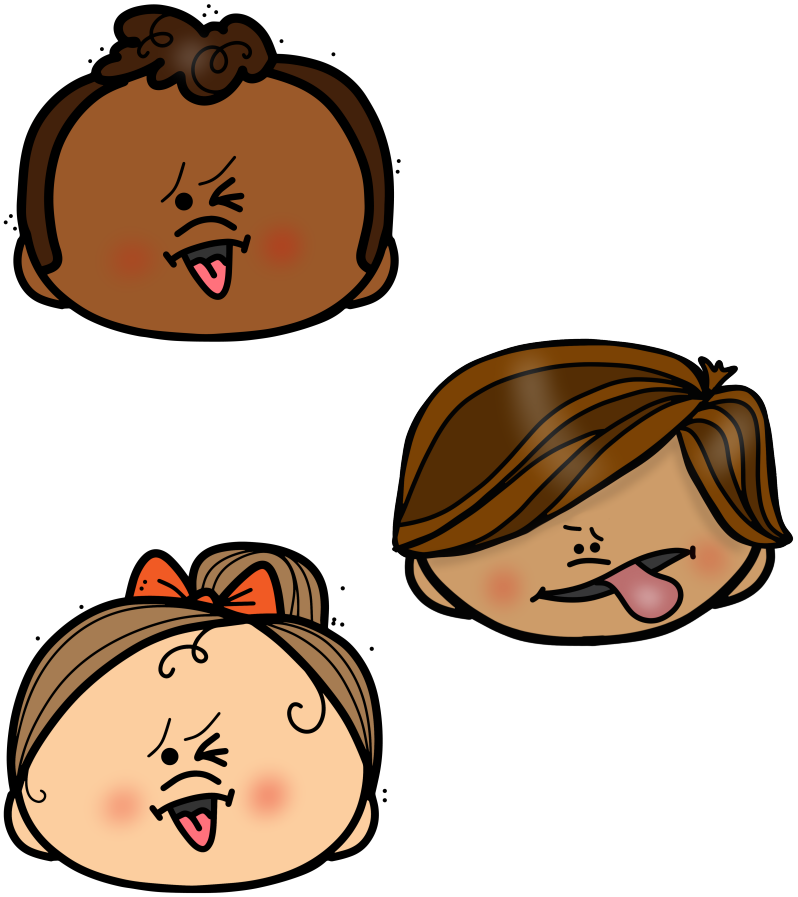


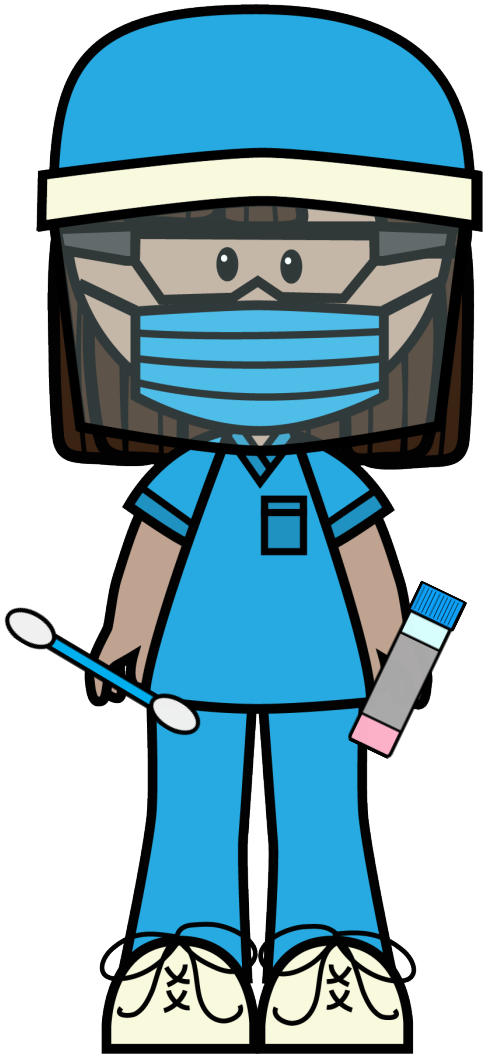
I can try my best to keep my hands in my lap during the test.

© Autism Little Learners



The swab will probably feel a little yucky, but it will be done fast! I can do it!

© Autism Little Learners



After the swab is out,
the nurse will put it in a container.

Getting a Coronavirus test might not be fun, but it will keep me safe. Everyone will be so proud of me!
