Whole School History Progression Map, Substantive Knowledge & Disciplinary Concepts 2024-25

NA/Ib a in this also access and four?
Who is this document for?
This progression has been made to help both Class Teachers and the History Subject Lead.
For Class Teachers this progression document allows teachers to clearly see what has already been covered in the previous year, the areas which are to be covered in the current year but also where learning continues into the next year. This progression document allows us to see how topics are developed over time and built on, as well as exact key knowledge that children must know in each unit and each class.
In addition to the above, it also allows the History Subject Lead to know when topics are being taught, which resources may be needed across the school at a particular time and also help with monitoring of key knowledge and coverage for triangulation.

Substantive Knowledge

Substantive knowledge refers to the residual knowledge that children should take away from the unit after it has been taught. It consists of the core facts and historical knowledge of the period, such as historical narrative, significant events or people, period features, chronology and substantive concepts. This is detailed in each units planning-overview in Staff Share.

Substantive Concepts

Substantive concepts are concepts that children will come across repeatedly throughout their education in history. They are words that are hard to define in one definition as they mean slightly different things in different contexts and periods of time. As a child progresses through their education, they will learn a little more about the concept each time they come across it, slowly building a coherent understanding of the concept throughout history. It is not expected that by the end of primary school, children will have a full understanding of these substantive concepts but they will be able to draw from their learning in history to better explain what they mean. Substantive concepts should be taught within historical contexts to provide a strong base for children's understanding. Examples include power and subsidiary words, such as 'rule', 'monarchy', 'emperor' and 'democracy'. In the progression map below, you will find the substantive concepts addressed in each unit. Each substantive concept is covered more than once to ensure that children have plenty of opportunities to develop their understanding. The substantive concepts in different colours are the main, most significant substantive concepts that run throughout all key stages.

Disciplinary Knowledge

Disciplinary knowledge includes all the skills that children will need to develop over time in their history lessons. They are skills that enable us to critically analyse contrasting arguments and interpretations of the past and make our own reasoned judgements about the past. Disciplinary knowledge is separated into disciplinary concepts and historical enquiry: these are both detailed below under 'Key Knowledge'. This is to ensure consistency across all subject areas and curriculum documents.

Disciplinary Concepts

Disciplinary concepts are concepts used in the study of history. They form the basis of many questions historians ask about the past and include continuity and change, cause and consequence, similarity and difference, and historical significance. These concepts will enable children to ask historically-valid questions, create connections, identify contrasts, examine trends and construct analyses. These are mapped out and differentiated for key stage 1, lower key stage 2 and upper key stage 2 in a separate document.

Historical Enquiry

Historical enquiry refers to the skills historians use to critically examine evidence to make claims about historical events and to compare interpretations of the past and how they are constructed. Through historical enquiry, children learn about the nature of primary and secondary sources, begin to understand how our knowledge of the past is constructed, develop chronological understanding and make connections between time periods. Historical enquiry skills are differentiated between key stage 1, lower key stage 2 and upper key stage 2 in a separate document.

Share non-fiction texts that offer an insight into contrasting environments  Culture and Communities (RE)  Celebrate Diwali and Christmas with in class. Children, explaining why these times are special to different religions.  The Natural World (Science)  Provide children with have frequent opportunities for outdoor play and exploration.  Encourage interactions with the outdoors to foster curiosity and give children freedom to touch, smell and hear the natural world around them during hands on experiences.	Past and Present (History)  Share information about your own family, giving children time to ask questions or make comments.  Listen to what children say about their own experiences with people who are familiar to them.  Present children with pictures, stories, artefacts and accounts from the past, explaining similarities and differences.  Show images of familiar situations in the past, such as homes, schools, transport and clothing.  Offer opportunities for children to begin to organise events using basic chronology.  Using examples from real life and from books, show children how there are many different families.  People and Places (Geography).  Look at aerial views of the school setting, encouraging children to comment on what they notice, recognising buildings, open space, roads and other simple features.  Teach children about places in the world that contrast with locations they know well.  Teach children about a range of contrasting environments within both their local and national region.  Children communicate their understanding of their own environment and contrasting environments through conversation and in play.  Culture and Communifies (RE)	Past and Present (History)  Interpretations of History: Offer hands-on experiences that deepen children's understanding, such as visiting a local area that has historical importance. Include a focus on the lives of both women and men. Is this building from the past or present?  Communication: Look for opportunities to observe children talking about experiences that are familiar to them and how these may have differed in the past.  Chronological Understanding: Offer opportunities for children to begin to organise events using basic chronology, recognising that things happened before they were born.  Historical Enquiry: Understand and use the term 'past' and 'present'  People and Places (Geography).  Locational & Place Knowledge: Familiarise children with the name of the road, and or village/ town/city the school is located in.  Use relevant, specific vocabulary to describe contrasting locations.  Avoid stereotyping and explain how children's lives in other countries may be similar or different in terms of how they travel to school, what they eat, where they live, and so on.

Past and Present

- Talk about members of their immediate family and community.
- Name and describe people who are familiar to them.

People, Culture and Communities

- Understand that some places are special to members of their community.
- Recognise that people have different beliefs and celebrate special times in different ways

The Natural World

Explore the natural world around them. Describe what they see, hear and feel whilst outside.

- Name and explain the purpose of places of worship and places of local importance to the community to children, drawing on their own experiences where possible.
- Help children to begin to build a rich bank of vocabulary with which to describe their own lives and the lives of others.

The Natural World (Science)

- Create opportunities to discuss how we care for the natural world around us.
- Offer opportunities to sing songs and join in with rhymes and poems about the natural world.
- Observe and interact with natural processes, such as ice melting, an object casting a shadow and a magnet attracting an object.

Past and Present

- Comment on images of familiar situations in the past.
- Compare and contrast characters from stories, including figures from the past.

People, Culture and Communities

- Draw information from a simple map.
- Recognise some similarities and differences between life in this country and life in other countries.

The Natural World

- Recognise some environments that are different to the one in which they live.
- Understand the effect of changing seasons on the natural world around them

Human & Physical Geography: Model the vocabulary needed to name specific features of the world, both natural and made by people.

Geographical Skills & Fieldwork: Offer opportunities for children to choose to draw simple maps of their immediate environment, or maps from imaginary story settings they are familiar with.

Culture and Communities (RE)

- Take children to places of worship and places of local importance to the community.
- Invite visitors from different religious and cultural communities into the classroom to share their experiences with children
- Encourage children to use vocabulary learnt to describe their own lives and lives of others.

The Natural World (Science)

- Identify & Classify: After close observation, draw pictures of the natural world, including animals and plants and name them.
- Observe, Measure & Pattern Spot: Observe and interact with natural processes, such a sound causing a vibration, light travelling through transparent material and a boat floating on water.
- Question & Enquire: Ask simple questions.
- Investigate: Observe and discuss simple tests.
   Record, Report and Draw Conclusions: Talk about the conclusions of simple tests and record as a group.

Emerald (Y1)

Great Fire of London inc Fire of Nantwich

This Great Fire of Landan unit will leach your class about the key events of the Great Fire of Landan and help them to develop an undestanding of the ways in which we can find out about the past. The children will have the opportunity to increase their awareness of the past by learning about what Landan was like in the 17th century. They compare life in the 17th century to the present day and consider how some problems, such as the lack of an arganised fire brigade and the type of buildings, caused the fire to spread. Children then focus on how and why some things changed as a result of the fire, in order to be safer. They begin to learn how historical sources can tell us about what happened in the past and how some sources are more useful than others.

Key knowledge (disciplinary concepts & historical enquiry)

- -Explain how and why London was different in the 17th century.
- Explain and order the key events of the Great Fire of London.
- -Explain how and why the fire spread and finally stopped and what changed afterwards.
- -Explain that we know about the Great Fire because of historical sources, such as Samuel Pepys' diary and begin to understand that some sources are more helpful than others.
- -Explain how the Fire of Nantwich was similar and different to the Great Fire of London.

- -Explain how and why London was different in the 17th century in a variety of different ways.
- -Explain and order the key events of the Great Fire of London in detail.

Toys

This Toy's unit will teach your class about popular toys through the 20th century and the early 21st century. Firstly, it asks the children to think about their favourite toy from today before moving on to look at toys which were popular when their parents and grandparents were children. Throughout the unit, the children will develop a range of historical skills such as: asking and answering questions, identifying and interpreting different sources and recognising change and exploing how this influences them today. A range of learning activities are used in this unit which include: drawing discussions, role play and games as well as writing tasks to encourage the children to fully engage in lessons.

Key knowledge (disciplinary concepts & historical enquiry)

- Explain what they know about toys today.
- Explain how we can find out about the past.
- Describe features of different toys.
- Recognise old and new toys.
- Use words relating to the passing of time
- Identify different sources we can use to find out about the past.
- Ask and answer simple questions.
- Compare two toys from different time periods, identifying similarities and differences.
- Use words and phrases relating to the passing of time.

Significant Explorers

In this unit, children explore why some people are considered to be significant before going on to learn about some significant explorers. Children learn about the explorations of lip Battuta, an explorer who lived around 700 years ago and about Matthew Henson, a farmous polar explorer who may have been the first man to step foot on the North Pole. They compare Matthew Henson's polar exploration to a much more recent exploration by Felicity Aston, the first person to walk across Antarctical alone on sits using her own power. The lesson about Neil Armstrong, the space explorer, looks, not only at his achievements, but asks the children to explore if it is right that Neil Armstrong, should be remembered more than the others involved in the Apollo 11 mission. Finally, the children investigate how we remember significant people and how values may change over time in relation to this. The lessons on Matthew Henson and Felicity Aston talk about racking and session and session in simple terms.

Key knowledge (disciplinary concepts & historical enquiry)

- $\bullet$  Select reasons why people are considered to be significant.
- Know some of the ways that we can find about the recent past and also about explorers from long ago.
- Say what the explorers studied are known for.
- With prompts, make some simple comparisons between explorations in the recent and more distant past.
- Talk about some of the ways that we remember significant explorers.
- Explain why at least one of the explorers studied is significant.
- Order reasons (in order of importance) as to why people might be considered to be significant.
- Compare the ways in which we can find out about the recent past and also about explorers from long ago.

Chronology progression:

- Key Stage 1 pupils should be aware of terms that describe the passing of time and be able to place events and objects in chronological order. Furthermore, they should be aware of a past beyond living memory.
- Early in KS2, pupils should develop an awareness of chronology, be able to employ dates and terms to describe the past, and realise that the past can be divided into periods.
- Later in KS2, pupils should produce work making appropriate use of dates and terms such as ancient, modern, AD, BC, century and decade.

	Historical Enquiry
	KS1	LKS2	UKS2
Historical Interpretations	KS1 History National Curriculum Pupils should understand some of the ways in which we find out about the past and identify different ways in which it is represented.  Children can:  a start to compare two versions of past events;  b start to understand that there can be different versions of the same event from the past;  c observe and use pictures, photographs and artefacts to find out about the past;  d start to use stories or accounts to distinguish between fact and fiction;  e explain that there are different types of evidence and sources, such as photographic and written, that can be used to help represent the past.	KS2 History National Curriculum Pupils should understand how our knowledge of the past is constructed from a range of sources.  Children can:  a look at two versions of the same event or story in history and identify differences;  b investigate different accounts of historical events and be able to explain some of the reasons why the accounts may be different.  c begin to understand some of the ways in which historians and others investigate the past.	KS2 History National Curriculum Pupils should understand how our knowledge of the past is constructed from a range of sources.  Children can:  a find and analyse a wide range of evidence about the past;  b use a range of evidence to offer some clear reasons for different interpretations of events, linking this to factual understanding about the past;  c consider different ways of checking the accuracy of interpretations of the past;  d start to understand the difference between primary and secondary evidence and start to question its reliability;  e show an awareness of the concept of propaganda;  f know that people in the past represent events or ideas in a way that may be to persuade others;  continue to develop their understanding of how historians and others investigate the past.
Historical Investigations	KS1 History National Curriculum Pupils should ask and answer questions, using other sources to show that they know and understand key features of events. Children can:  a observe or handle evidence to ask simple questions about the past; b observe or handle evidence to find answers to simple questions about the past on the basis of simple observations; c use evidence to explain the key features of events; d sort some objects/artefacts into new and old and then and now.	KS2 History National Curriculum Pupils should regularly address and sometimes devise historically valid questions about change, cause, similarity and difference, and significance. Pupils should construct informed responses that involve thoughtful selection and organisation of relevant historical information.  Children can:  a use a range of primary and secondary sources to find out about the past;  b construct informed responses about one aspect of life or a key event in the past through careful selection and organisation of relevant historical information;  c gather more detail from sources such as maps to build up a clearer picture of the past;  regularly address and sometimes devise own questions to find answers about the past;  begin to undertake their own research.	KS2 History National Curriculum Pupils should regularly address and sometimes devise historically valid questions about change, cause, similarity and difference, and significance. Pupils should construct informed responses that involve thoughtful selection and organisation of relevant historical information.  Children can:  a recognise when they are using primary and secondary sources of information to investigate the past;  b use a wide range of different evidence to collect evidence about the past, such as ceramics, pictures, documents, printed sources, posters, online material, photographs, artefacts, historic statues, figures, sculptures, historic sites;  c select relevant sections of information to address historically valid questions and construct detailed, informed responses; d investigate their own lines of enquiry by posing historically valid questions to answer.

Similarities and Differences	KS1 History National Curriculum Pupils should understand historical concepts, such as similarity and difference.  Pupils should identify similarities and differences between ways of life in different periods.  Children can:  a start to understand that during the same period of time, life was different for people in the past, such as rich and poor, male and female;  b identify that some things within living memory are similar and some things are different;  c recognise some similarities and differences between the past and the present.	a identify and give some examples of how life was different for different people in the same and different periods of	KS2 History National Curriculum Understand historical concepts, such as similarity and difference. Children can: a explain and give varied examples of how life was similar and different in the past; b explain and give examples to show that things may have been different from place to place at the same time; c start to give reasons for these similarities and differences.
Possible Questions	Was this the same for everyone? How would the life of a have been different? (You could name different jobs, etc.) Who would this have been different for?	Can you give an example of how life was similar for someone who was there? Was this the same everywhere? How was it different?	Why do people believe there was this difference? Historical Significance	KS1 History National Curriculum Pupils should understand historical concepts, such as historical significance.  Children can: a explain reasons why someone might be significant; b talk about why a person was important; c talk about why the event was important and what happened.	RS2 History National Curriculum     Pupils should understand historical concepts such as historical significance.  Children can:     begin to understand that historical significance is a decision that people living in modern times make about what they feel are important aspects of the past;     understand that historical significance can be related to specific events, people, locations and ideas that are seen as being particularly important to us;     identify historically significant people and events from a period of history and give some detail about what they did or what happened.	KS2 History National Curriculum Pupils should understand historical concepts, such as historical significance.  Children can:  d explain that historical significance is a personal decision that people make which means that not everyone agrees on who or what is significant;  e understand that what we consider to be significant can change throughout different periods;  f start to explain the importance of an event using the following criteria: significant individually, regionally, nationally or globally;  g identify a range of historically significant people and events from different periods of history and explain why they were significant;  h identify historically significant people and events from a period of history and give some detail about what they did/what happened and what impact it had.
Possible Questions	Was this the same for everyone? Can you name a significant person? What did this person do? Can you name a significant event? Can you explain what this event was?
